This is not a quote or a sales script. It is what I understood about your operation, what still needs validating, and a proposal to discuss it calmly. If you do not see a clear case for return, tell me: there is no commitment.

If something here does not fit, tell me straight. I would rather have an honest conversation than a project that does not pay you back.

2 · The opportunity we saw

What you told us, in one sentence: quotes are built by hand and take hours; leads wait until tomorrow

Current tools: Excel, WhatsApp, QuickBooks

Stated urgency: alta

We do not assume numbers you did not give us. What follows is what we know, what still needs validating, and the questions I would ask before touching anything.

3 · Requirements to contact the client

- Who decides, who uses the process, and who can say no.
- Real volume, peaks, and what happens when the process fails.
- Current tools and where the information to consult lives.
- What must not be touched: legal, brand, client relationship, or accounting.
- Real urgency and the investment range the client is comfortable with.
- What would have to be true for this project to be worth it.

4 · Questions to debate (no commitment)

- What happens if we do nothing for the next few months?
- What does a late reply or a quote left in a drawer cost today?
- Who approves, and which decision would you not delegate even to your team?
- What would the pilot have to show for you to authorise the next phase?

5 · Proposed project

Immediate-response agent. An agent answers enquiries in seconds, consults your real catalogue and policies, qualifies the lead and books a call; a human approves pricing.

Phases: Phase 1: diagnosis + pilot on WhatsApp. Phase 2: CRM and web chat. Phase 3: metrics and continuous improvement.

Estimated investment: 3,500 - 12,000 USD depending on channels and integrations

6 · Expectations adjusted during the conversation

- The client asked to automate everything; we explained map-first, simplify-second.

> What we do NOT recommend automating: Autonomous pricing or discounts: those decisions stay human.

7 · Why this project is worth what it costs

It is not a chatbot or a subscription: it is a piece that enters your operation, is measured against your baseline, and stays only if the return appears. The investment is decided with the process in front of us, not with a slide.

8 · How we protect your operation

We map before automating, put human approval where money or legal risk is involved, and log every decision. Your data does not train third-party models; if your sector requires it, the system lives in your infrastructure.

9 · Next step

- Review this brief with whoever decides with you and note what still needs validating.
- Talk it through on WhatsApp: WhatsApp +52 983 406 6176
- or book a short video call with live AI interpretation if language is a barrier
- If it fits: map the process and start with the first real piece in production.
